

WASHINGTON, D. C., OCTOBER 15, 1916.

Smart Styles From the Washington Shops

(Posed especially for The Star.)

Smart afternoon frock of black messaline, with huge cape collar and revers of white satin.

Charming model, showing clouds of burnished gold maline draped over a cloth of gold skirt and held down by a loose sash of turquoise velvet. A scintillating beaded material forms the bodice.

Military effect in a sealskin set of cape and turban.

Charming new hair dressing, showing the use of the Spanish comb and pyramid effect of the curls.

Striking new effect in a beaver shape, with a simple ornament of gros grain ribbon.

Combination set of bag and turban for afternoon wear. Materials used are black velvet and heavy blue gros grain, elaborately brocaded in gold.

Marvelous evening wrap of panne velvet, in a shade of fire. The great collar and cuffs are of fox and the gold tassels, gracefully weighting down the pocket and collar, form the simple decoration.

Duvetyne suit in the new shade of rubber gray, with a huge collar and cuffs of Australian opossum. The coat measures five yards around the bottom.